

BAPTISMAL NAPKINS

In a cottage near Kanyakumari, close to the southern tip of India, several dozen young women deftly twist spindles to create lovely lace. These young women are not only learning the art of lace making, they are generating their own income as the lace is marketed as far away as Belgium and the US. This is one of the main development projects Lutheran World Relief supports throughout the world. The young women edge linen squares with this delicate lace and hand-embroider a cross or dove in one corner, creating beautiful baptismal napkins. How appropriate that these napkins, which bring hope for a new life to those who make them, are used when a new life in Christ comes to His little ones.

This program is one mission of Capitol Drive Lutheran Church.
